~AN OBSERVATION

The first Sunday of Advent, a traditionally “poor attendance Sunday” is squeezed between “Black Friday” and “Cyber Monday”. That’s almost symbolic of the way that the Christmas brand has been hijacked by our American culture. Even more, the spiritual and emotional complexities of this season are presented in the whip-lash between commercial pressures and the promises of the Gospel. Every emotion, joyful and painful, is intensified during the month of December. Good relationships get better and bad ones get worse. Paradoxically, those who ignore him during most of the year will both seek Jesus and push him away this month. I suspect that more people attend worship on Christmas Eve than any other day of the year. It’s a strange spiritual season!

And in the midst of the confusion, our colleagues in ministry will speak the Gospel of Christ with a clear voice and conduct ministry with solid integrity. It is what God has called us to do and we will be faithful.

Thank you for your ministry and may God bless you during this Advent Season. Joe Kutter

~A MINISTERS COUNCIL TASK FORCE FOR WOMEN IN MINISTRY – Holly Bean

At its meeting in August, the Ministers Council Senate voted to establish a task force to focus on issues American Baptist women in ministry face. Earlier in the year, the Executive Director of Women in Ministry position in the Office of the General Secretary (OGS) had been defunded because of a serious decline in resources. Leaders of the Ministers Council Senate received that news with great concern. The Ministers Council has historically committed itself to support and advocacy for women in ministry. The time had come to reactivate that commitment.

At the same time the Ministers Council was setting up its task force, OGS was taking action. The Reverend Mary A. Hulst accepted General Secretary Roy Medley’s invitation to lead an exploration of how ABCUSA can support women in ministry in the future. The result of her work will be a proposed new pattern of staffing support for ABC professional women in ministry. The Ministers Council's task force will work in partnership with her efforts.

In addition, the Ministers Council's Women in Ministry Task Force will explore and develop new ways to support and advocate for women in ministry, especially through Ministers Council channels. We plan to keep women in ministry information circulating with regular submissions to this newsletter.

In the spirit of "News You Can Use" we would like to highlight this month the Priscilla Institute, an interesting educational center located at Palmer Theological Seminary. Here is more information about it.

In 2004 Eastern University, and its seminary, Palmer Theological Seminary collaborated to launch a new program for women who are leading in various ministry capacities in organizations and churches. The Priscilla Institute (PI) at the Hestenes Center for Christian Women in Leadership is a program designed especially for women. PI makes it possible for women to achieve a Bachelor of Arts degree in Organizational Management from Eastern University.

The Priscilla Institute is an illustration of koinonia in practice. It combines courses from various schools within Eastern University resulting in a comprehensive outcomes based, learner-centered education. Located on the campus of the Palmer Theological Seminary, the Priscilla Institute was designed to provide a well-rounded education for those who are on the front lines of ministry. It affords women the chance to develop their ministry, management, and leadership skills, offering those with little or no college education the opportunity to earn a degree and enhance their skills as a pastor, a minister, or a leader.
